About me

As a Business English teacher, I have had the opportunity to work with professionals from a wide range of industries, including IT, finance, accounting, graphic design, logistics, and human resources. This has given me a strong understanding of the specific language and communication needs of these industries and how they can apply to the field of tech writing. I am confident that my experience working with professionals in these industries will enable me to effectively communicate and collaborate with technical teams and understand their unique documentation needs.
